

Speaker: Lee Krasner was Jackson Pollock's wife. When they first got together, she was the better known artist of the two. Krasner and Pollock, both inspired each other. Her work is sometimes overshadowed by Pollock's because she tirelessly promoted his work. Her style is very similar to Pollock's, but she actually applied paint with the brush on the canvas, giving her greater control and more structure in her painting.

[00:00:26] [END OF AUDIO]