

Speaker: Mini inventions that we take for granted as part of modern life were invented the first half of the 20th century. I'm not expecting you to know all this in detail, but to get a general feeling for how science and technology went hand in hand to create radical changes in everyday life. For artists, the ability to travel greater distances at faster speeds and have better communication, foster the cross-pollination of ideas. The invention of television, talking movies and the electric guitar had radical implications which have transformed the world of art, music and theater forever.

[00:00:34] [END OF AUDIO]