

Female Speaker: Sculpture was also redefined after the war. Abstraction in sculpture created beautiful full three-dimensional art objects. Many of these sculptures were very organic and extremely smooth, free from the details of texture and were, in fact, free from details of almost any kind. One of the most important sculptors of the day created many reclining figures. His name was Henry Moore and he was a British sculptor.

[00:00:28] [END OF AUDIO]